urethane technologies™

September 4, 2009

Dear Valued Customer,

We have been notified by our chemical suppliers that polyol, TDI and MDI will increase as of October 5, 2009.

As a result of these increases, Advanced Urethane Technologies has no other choice but to increase prices on all urethane foam products 20% effective October 5, 2009. Your account manager will provide you with more information and a new price schedule as soon as possible. These producers cite the dramatic increase in the component feedstocks as the reason for the increases.

All of us at Advanced Urethane Technologies are acutely aware of the challenges created by these cost increases and we thank you for your support throughout these difficult times.

We will do everything possible to continue providing the best value in the industry.

Sincerely,

John Altmeyer
Sales Manager
